

Blatchington Mill School - Hove, UK

Blatchington Mill is a large co-educational state day school situated on the outskirts of Brighton & Hove.

The school's mission is to equip students to meet the challenges of society and to play an active role in its evolution. In November 1999 the school was granted special status for the performing arts thereby receiving special funding from the government. As a result Blatchington Mill has special facilities dedicated to music and other performing arts which have formed an integral part of the school and are used extensively by the local community. The school has a good record academically and offers a wide range of subjects.
