Hamburg | The Venice of the north

Regardless of the fact that Hamburg is quite distant from the open sea, life in Germany's second largest city is determined by water. Two large artificial inner-city lakes, the Inner Alster and the Outer Alster as well as numerous crossing canals form Hamburg's inner city structure. Therefore the hanseatic metropolis has a maritime flair which is unique in Germany and a reputation for being the Venice of the North. Everywhere in the city it becomes obvious, how much people here enjoy life on the waterside – on the traditional fish-market where early risers and tourists taste the delicacies of the North Sea as well as in the bars on the banks of Elbe river, where in the evenings the party crowd settles in beach chairs for barbecues and picnics.

But above all other attractions it is the Hamburg harbor, which brings the unique charme to this cosmopolitan city and determines its rhythm of life. Europe's third largest port is the most important trans-shipment center for numerous goods worldwide. Nowhere else in the world more amounts of coffee and carpets are reloaded. It is a special experience to watch the hectic scenery on the water with its fascinating contrasts. Battered fishing boats cruise in front of noble luxury liners, modern container carrier ships berth next to venerable sailing boats. Germany's gate to the world, as Hamburg harbor is called, is a fascinating micro-cosmos – a world of its own – which we will explore regularly with our international participants.

Activity program

Our participants can discover exceptional historical and architectural sights in the Hamburg harbor area, for example in the Old Warehouse district – the world's largest connected storehouse complex. In the so-called Speicherstadt coffee, tea, cocoa and exotic spices have been stored for more than 100 years behind thick red brick walls. In SPICY's, a spice museum – samples of these viands are offered as tasters. Next door the Hamburg Dungeon is awaiting our participants' visit. There they can go back in times into the dark era of the black plague and witch hunting. After this spooky dip into Hamburg's history we will finish off the excursion with a relaxing tour of Hamburg harbor in a tourist barge – ship ahoy!

On weekends we organize full-day excursions to different destinations. In summer for example our participants are traveling to the North Sea and have a refreshing stay on the beaches and

Christmas holidays

Every year during christmas holidays the did deutsch-institut Hamburg is closed:

an excursion to the famous North Sea tideland. There are also excursions scheduled to the cities of Bremen and Lübeck, where exciting historic locations will be visited and the background of the Hanseatic League will be highlighted. Our participants will also get to know world-famous sights like the Reichstag building and Brandenburg Gate on weekend-trips to Berlin. History comes alive here and your participants will be impressed with sights such as the Berlin Wall. Visiting the German capital, however, also means discovering clubs, bars and shopping centers.

The school

The Esplanade Building – a historic art-deco commercial building housing our Hamburg institute is located right in the heart of the city. From the 200 square meter roof terrace participants can enjoy a view on the Inner Alster – the large artificial inner-city lake – and the Jungfernstieg with its world-famous hotels and department stores. All classrooms are well lit and spacious and are equipped with high quality furniture and state-of-the-art communication media. Participants can access the internet via W-LAN throughout the premises. In addition the Hamburg institute offers a PC-pool with 20 workstations, a large library, several multimedia rooms and a spacious cafeteria with snack- and drink-vending machines.

Euro-Business-College

In Hamburg did deutsch-institut shares premises, especially terraces, cafeteria and PC rooms with its affiliated company – the Euro-Business-College (EBC). The EBC offers international study courses such as International Business Management, Tourism & Event Management, International Media Management or International Relations & Politics.

Participants of did deutsch-institut attending a German language course in Hamburg have a unique opportunity to meet Germans of the same age group and learn about daily life in a German university. They have, for instance, the possibility to access the university library where they can lend technical literature.

Accommodation

According to personal preferences students may choose among several accommodation possibilities: Do they prefer family accommodation and, thus, practicing their language skills outside the classroom? Then they should decide to have family accommodation with breakfast or breakfast and dinner. If participants decide in favor of the private room option, they stay with a host or share an apartment, but they are responsible for their own meals. If your students rather prefer living independently, they should opt for youth hotel or hotel accommodation.

Youth hotels

Please note: accommodation in youth hotels can only be arranged for participants 18 years and older!
